JUDGE QUIGLEY'S DEATH WAS PROFOUND SHOCK

Popular Jurist Died Suddenly at Home Saturday Morning

GREAT LOSS TO PUBLIC

Death came suddenly, swiftly, unexpectedly, to Hon. Henry Crosky Quigley, President Judge of the Centre County Courts, shortly after 8 o'clock last Saturday morning, at his home on East Linn St. Seemingly in the best of health when he retired about midnight, he awakened with sharp pains in his chest. He spoke of this as merely causing him some discomfort. A few minutes later, even before relief could be administered, or members of the family could be summoned to his bedside, he passed away.

Stricken as he was in the very prime of manhood, and so few hours after he had appeared to be in perfect health, the news of his untimely death came as a profound shock to not only his home community, but to countless persons throughout the State. A strong, strikingly vigorous character in the affairs of his home county for many years, his death is deeply mourned by all.

If there are consoling thoughts at such a time for those bereaved, one is that a kindly Providence led his footsteps homeward before the final summons came. He had planned otherwise. During virtually all of November he had presided in Court in Philadelphia. He had contemplated being in Pittsburgh on Thanksgiving Day for the Penn State football game. He had arranged to return to Bellefonte on Friday to dispose of some Court matters, and on Satuiday join a little group of home friends at the Army—Navy football name, at Baltimore. Orlando Johnson, a personal friend, died rather suddenly at Philadelphia, and Judge Quigley remained there for the funeral, instead of going to Pittsburgh. He presided in Court in Philadelphia on Friday, departing for home late that afternoon. He cancelled his Baltimore trip in order to be in Bellefonte on Saturday, clear his desk of accumulated business, and join the Woodward Hunting Club, of which he was a member, in the mountains on Monday.

When he stepped off the train at Lock Haven late Friday night Judge Quigley was rather tired after the long journey, but to Robert Roan, the taxi man, who was there to meet him, he called a cheery greeting, and on the motor trip home he was in the best of spirits. Before retiring for the night he chatted with Mrs. Quigley, saying how glad he was to be home again. He slept soundly until morning. His son Hugh stepped into the bedroom for a minute, before starting to work, and to him the Judge remarked that he had more or less pain about the heart, but that it seemed to be eased somewhat by his lying on his chest. It was but a minute or two after Hugh walked out of the room, that the Judge experienced a recurrence of the heart pains, but in more violent form. His moans attracted the attention of Mrs. Quigley. She started downstairs to find a hot water bottle, and at the same time phoned for Dr. David Dale. The latter hastened to the Quigley home, but before he had arrived the Judge had expired. Heart failure was given as the cause of death. Friends who knew him intimately, and who were aware that he suffered from attacks of indigestion, were inclined to believe that such an attack had affected the heart. He suffered but a comparatively short time before lapsing into unconsciousness from which he never rallied. Some years ago Judge Quigley was critically ill from pneumonia. Fully realizing the gravity of that illness, he mentioned more than once in the intimate chats that men who are close friends have among themselves that it was his hope and desire, when he should be called by death, that the summons might come quickly. Sad as it was and is in many ways, this passing was as he had wished.

Judge Quigley was so interested in the things that go to make up the life of the community, and so active and enthusiastic in all that he did, that it is difficult to realize that he has been taken away. Measured by sheer ability, he was far beyond the average man. No goal was too high for him to strive for, and the honors that he achieved he won for himself by pluck and courage that commanded admiration. He had won for himself the highest honors in the gift of the people of Centre County, but he had set his star far beyond. His most cherished ambition was that he might be called to the higher courts. Meanwhile, he had been prominently mentioned for Governor, and with the somewhat mixed conditions prevailing in the State at the present time there are many who believed that he stood an excellent chance for the Republican nomination in 1926. Some years ago the late Senator Penrose remarked to the writer that he regarded Judge Quigley as possessing political ability much above the average, and greatly exceeding that of anybody else whom he knew in Centre County. This was before Judge Quigley had attained the prominence which was his in more recent years.

To those who were priviliged to know him intimately, Judge Quigley was a boy who never grew up. He fairly radiated sunshine, good cheer and good fellowship. He was always at his best when the odds were against him. Back in the old days, the days men love to talk about among themselves, particularly when off in the fastness of some mountain camp, there was a day when, tired and disheartened, Judge Quigley seriously contemplated going away from Bellefonte and locating in West Virginia. The odds were against him, just then, as a struggling young lawyer. But he didn't go away. He remained in Bellefonte and fought his own fight, and finally had the proud distinction of being acclaimed the President Judge of Centre Country.

In the fullest appreciation of him as a man, in affectionate memory of him as a friend, in grateful recollection of countless happy hours enjoyed with him, and in sincere sorrow because he is gone, the writer humbly dedicates these few lines of tribute to Henry Crosky Quigley.

BURIAL MADE TUESDAY

Funeral services for the late Judge Quigley were held from St. John's Protestant Episcopal church on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the large concourse of sorrowing friends and admirers in attendance testifying to the high esteem in which he was held in his home community. Present also were a number of Judges and attorneys from various parts of the State. Earlier in the day memorial services in his honor were held at the Court House.

All business in Bellefonte was suspended and the public schools closed during the hour for the funeral.

The body lay in state at the Quigley homestead throughout Tuesday morning. The large living room in which the casket reposed was literally a mass of flowers. Before the body was taken to the church Rev. M. DePui Maynard offered a brief prayer. He also conducted the service at the church. The pallbearers were Charles M. McCurdy, John Blanchard, Dr. David Dale, James C. Furst, John Curtin, Adolph Fauble, James W. Herron, George R. Meek, Harry Keller and Chas. E. Dorworth. The service at the grave was private.

Former Judge Ellis L. Orvis presided at the memorial service at the Court House, and in his opening remarks paid a beautiful tribute to the deceased. Resolutions, as prepared by a committee of the Centre County Bar Association, were read by John Blanchard and subsequently adopted by a rising vote. There were brief addresses by Judge Walton Mitchell, of Pittsburgh, who was a classmate of Judge Quigley, at State College; also by Attorneys M. Ward Fleming and George W. Zeigler, of Philipsburg; Henry Hipple, B. F. Geary and Henry T. Hall, of Lock Haven, and others. Members of the local bar graciously gave their time for addresses to visiting lawyers. In addition to the several mentioned, those present from different points included Judges Kline, Stone and Copeland, of Pittsburgh; Judge Baldridge, of Altoona; Judge Whitehead, of Williamsport; Mr. Shaner, of Greensburg; Hon. Harry B. Scott, of Philipsburg; G. W. A. MacDonald, of Lock Haven, and others.

Telegrams and letters received conveyed condolences from bar associations and prominent attorneys in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Delaware, Erie and other counties, where Judge Quigley had frequently presided in the Courts.

CAMP FIRE ASHES

Goodbye Old Man,
A fellow can't understand,
Why it had to be you.

Goodbye Old Pal,
Your kind and mine
Of Pals seem so few.

Friend of mine, goodbye,
Sometime, tell me, why
It had to be you.

Old Man and Pal,
Old friend of mine,
Goodbye,

Burned by Extinguisher Liquid.

Robert Roan, Bellefonte taxi man, received a serious burn in his right eye last Friday afternoon, when the liquid from a fire extinguisher shot out of the instrument and struck him in the face. The extinguisher had refused to operate and he was endeavoring to fix it. The accident occurred at the P. R. R. passenger station and he was rushed to the office of a local physician who treated the injured eye, and predicted there would be no serious results.

Resolutions Adopted by Centre Co. Bar on Judge Quigley's Death

The Committee appointed at a preliminary meeting of this Association, held November 29, 1924, to draft a minute and suitable resolutions relative to the death of the Hon. Henry C. Quigley, President Judge of this, the 49th Judicial District of Pennsylvania, and a member of this Bar, whose death occurred on Saturday morning, November 29, 1924, would respectfully report the following Minute:

Judge Quigley was born at Beech Creek, Clinton County, Pennsylvania, on the fifteenth dsy of October, 1867. He was the oldest son of Captain James A. Quigley and Mary Shaw Quigley, both of whom have been dead for a number of years. He received his early education in the public schools of Liberty Township and was prepared for College at the Bellefonte Academy under the late Rev. James P. Hughes. In the fall of 1886, he entered the Pennsylvania State College at State College, Pa., as a member of the Class of 1890, but during his Freshman year, having received an appointment to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, he entered the Military Academy, and spent about a year there, after which he returned to Bellefonte, Pa., and entered the law offices of Hastings & Reeder as a student at law. After the completion of his law studies, and passing his examination, he was in due course admitted to practice at the Centre County Bar on the sixteenth day of April, 1891. Thereafter he continuously practiced his profession at the Centre County Bar, first in association with Hastings & Reeder, and after the election of the Hon. Daniel H. Hastings, as Governor of Pennsylvania, with the late Col. Wilbur F. Reeder, under the firm name of Reeder & Quigley, and later alone, until his election as President Judge of this District, in the Fall of 1915.

Judge Quigley was always a staunch Republican, and took an active interest in politics. He was Chairman of the Republican County Committee for a number of years, and in 1906, he was the Republican candidate for State Senator, and carried Centre County, but was defeated in the District by the Hon. George M. Dimeling of Clearfield, the Democratic nominee.

After his election as Judge, he entered upon the duties of his office on the first Monday of January, 1916, and served in that capacity with honor and dignity continuously until his death. He took a deep interest in the affairs of his profession, and at the time of his death was a member of the Pennsylvania State Bar Association and of the American Bar Association.

He was frequently called upon to hold Court in other Judicial Districts, particularly in Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties, as well as in Erie, Westmoreland, Delaware, Cambria, Susquehanna and other Counties. As a Judge he was clearheaded and quick to discern the real issues involved and was very successful in avoiding unnecessary technicalities and in arriving at the determination of the merits of a controversy. He was very expeditious in disposing of the business of the Court and kept his Calender well up to date. He was dignified, fair and courteous in his treatment of the members of the Bar and this attitude did much toward freeing his Court from rancor or unpleasant feeling between the Bench and the Bar, and between opposing counsel. He had a strong sense of natural justice and a human sympathy which made him particularly successful in the administration of criminal law, and the affairs of the Juvenile Court.

Judge Quigley had a fine social side, and his cordial geniality and companionable disposition had won for him many devoted friends throughout the State. He had a great love for outdoor life, and from boyhood spent much time in the woods, thus becoming an expert fisherman and hunter; he was skilled in woodcraft and had an intense passion for everything connected with life in the woods. He was always much interested in sports of all kinds, and in late years had become very fond of yacht racing with friends off the New England Coast.

He was a member of the Nittany Country Club, the Bellefonte Lodge of Masons, the Williamsport Consistory, the Bellefonte Elks, P. O. S. of A., and other fraternal organization.

For years he has been a Director of Whiterock Quarries, and has always taken an active part in the affairs of that Company.

Judge Quigley for many years has been a member of the Episcopal Church, and for a long time has been a Vestryman in St. John's Episcopal Church of Bellefonte, Pa., and in later years its Junior Warden.

On April 17, 1895, he was united in marriage with Miss Augusta C. Merriman, of Bradford, New York, who survives him, together with one son, Hugh M. Quigley, and two daughters, Miss Henrietta C. Quigley and Mrs. W. Frederick Reynolds, Jr., all of Bellefonte. He is also survived by four sisters, Mrs. W. D. Horne, of Yonkers, N. Y., Miss Gertrude Quigley, of Lancaster, Pa., Mrs. J. Frederick Wynn and Mrs. George F. Hess, of Beech Creek, Pa., and by one brother, Hon. Richard S. Quigley, of Lock Haven, Pa.

The Committee recommended the adoption of the foregoing Minute and of the following Resolutions:

RESOLVED that in the death of Hon. Henry C. Quigley, the Bench of Pennsylvania as well as of Centre County has lost a faithful and efficient Judge, Bellefonte and Centre County, a public spirited and useful citizen, and his many friends, the charm of his genial and joyous companionship.

RESOLVED that we extend to his wife and family our sincere sympathy.

RESOLVED that this Minute and those Resolutions be spread upon the records of the Court, and that a copy thereof be sent to Mrs. Quigley, and another copy thereof to the Pennsylvania Bar Association.

CRUSHED IN QUARRY.

Heavy Rock Crushed Arthur Bickle At Pleasant Gap.

H. Arthur Bickle, a "pop driller" employed by the White Rock Quarries Co., at Pleasant Gap was instantly killed about 11:30 on Wednesday morning. A large rock weighing a ton or more, became dislodged and slid down the side of the quarry about 8 feet, striking Bickle on the chest. It is thought that his foot became wedged between two stones and when the slide started he was unalbe to get away.

The deceased was about 41 years old, and is survived by his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Dora Chandler, and five children, ranging in age from four to sixteen years. Funeral services will be held from the late home on Lamb Street, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Union cemetery.

High School Glee Club.

The first exhibition work of the local High School's glee club will be given in the High School auditorium, Thursday evening, Dec. 11. The entire club of almost 100 members will participate. One large group will sing the choruses from the light opera, "The Toreadors;" —another will do the dancing numbers, while to still another group falls the dramatic interpretation of this delightful work. In the second part of the evening's program, a minstrel group will entertain. Admission, 35c for adults and 25c for children under 12.

On page 8, this issue, is found a list of gift suggestions of furniture, priced as low as $1.00—by W. R. Brachbill.

GROSS BUILDING BURNED.

Furnace Explosion Caused Costly Blaze Wednesday Night.

An exploding furnace in the basement of the house rented by William Reed on Spring street, caused the entire corner, owned by John Gross, to be swept by flames, which were discovered about 10 o'clock on Wednesday evening.

The building adjoining in which are located the Gross store, the harness shop of James Schofield, and the apartments of Mrs. Moses Levi, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Kline, and John Bair, were badly damaged. The stock of the Gross store was almost totally destroyed, and furniture and other articles in the various apartments virtually ruined. No estimate of the damage is available at this writing. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Hobo Jailed for Theft.

Thomas Williams, a member of the great fraternity of "blanket stiffs," or hoboes, was arrested by Chief of Police Dukeman, on the streets of Bellefonte on Tuesday evening, a few hours after he had burglarized the home of George W. Smith, who lives a few miles east of town in Nittany valley. A pair of shoes, 2 pairs of gloves, a pair of overshoes, and about $21 in cash were recovered by Mr. Smith, who upon discovery of the theft notified the police and gave a description of a man who had been seen along the road from Lock Haven earlier in the afternoon. At a hearing before 'Squire Keichline on Wednesday, Williams pleaded guilty, and accompanied the efficient "Dukie" to where the money was secreted under a tie pile in the P. R. R. yard. He was returned to jail in default of $1,000 bail for court.

GOVERNOR TO APPOINT COUNTY'S NEW JUDGE

Keller, Furst, Fleming and Dale Mentioned for Vacancy.

NO DECEMBER COURT

Centre County's new Judge, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Judge Quigley, will be appointed by Governor Pinchot, and will serve until his successor is chosen at the general election in November, 1925. The person elected at that time will take his seat on the first Monday in January, 1926.

Speculation is rife as to who will be appointed. If the Governor adheres to his policy in filling other vacancies, namely that of appointing some one of the same political affiliation as the predecessor, Judge Quigley's successor will be a Republican. Four Republican attorneys are mentioned, in such a contingency. They are Harry Keller, James C. Furst and District Attorney Arthur C. Dale, all of Bellefonte, and M. Ward Fleming, of Philipsburg.

Should Governor Pinchot appoint a Democratic attorney, it is thought by leading Pinchot adherents in the county that he will name J. Kennedy Johnston, of Bellefonte.

The Governor will be urged to act promptly, owing to the extreme emergency existing in the Centre County Courts. All Court business is virtually at a standstill, and will continue so until the new Judge is appointed.

The regular December term of Court, called to convene next Monday, Dec. 6, has been automatically cancelled. It is impossible to proceed with the trial of cases because there is no Judge to formally charge the Grand Jury. As it appears now, there will be no session of Court until February.

A vacancy such as exists at present is one regarding which the law affords the most meagre emergency measures of relief, aside from an appointment by the Governor. Such, at least, is the opinion of local attorneys. The Supreme Court is empowered to assign a Judge from an outside county in order to expedite business, but only upon request of the President Judge of the county requiring assistance. Judge Quigley being dead, there is no President Judge of Centre County to file such a request. A Supreme Court Justice is empowered to personally sit in any county, but only to try criminal cases. Apparently no such provision applies to Common Pleas Courts, where all civil matters are tried.

Under the law, where a vacancy is created by death, the Judge presiding in the Court House, nearest by direct line, is empowered to act, but only to sign writs in extreme emergency matters. In the present instance, this would devolve upon Judge Baird, as the President Judge of Clinton County.

The presumption is that this situation will be fully submitted to Governor Pinchot by way of impressing upon him the importance of his making an appointment as quickly as possible.

Had Judge Quigley lived, he would have become a candidate for re-election, and it is probable that he would have had no opposition for the Republican nomination. He had discussed the matter informally with intimate friends, and fully expected to announce himself shortly after the first of the new year.

With the new situation created by Judge Quigley's untimely death, friends of Harry Keller declare that he will unquestionably be a candidate for Republican nomination in 1925. He was an avowed candidate for the Republican nomination nine years ago, but withdrew prior to the primaries, which were at that time non-partisan. In more recent years Mr. Furst and Mr. Fleming have been spoken of as possible candidates on the Republican side, and of late District Attorney Dale's name has been mentioned. The presumption is that the situation now existing is of such sudden and unexpected development that few, if any, of those referred to have come to a decision as to their future plans. The same might also be said of possible Democratic candidates for the nomination. J. Kennedy Johnston has been generally looked upon as a prospective candidate, but with anticipated strenuous opposition within his own party ranks, N. B. Spangler, S. D. Gettig and W. Harrison Walker have also been considered as following matters closely with the idea of entering the lists if the outlook offered much encouragement. Former Judge Ellis L. Orvis has likewise been viewed as cherishing aspirations for another term on the bench. John Blanchard has for years been mentioned for Judge, but his friends have always believed that he would not wage a political campaign for the honor.

ROCKVIEW PEAS READY WHEN CANNERY WASN'T

All But Small Part of Crop Wasted in Field, Says Brinmeier.

"ITS UP TO STUTSMAN"

There was one crop of vegetables at the Rockview gardens during the past summer that wasn't a failure in the matter of quantity, even if the cabbage and beans proved a frightful loss. This was the crop of Alaska peas.

Rockview not only had peas to eat, but peas—bushels and bushels of them—to can, at the cannery. The only trouble was that the peas were ready to be canned, but the new cannery wasn't ready for the peas—wasn't ready until some time September for canning very much of anything, by which time there wasn't much in the line of new vegetables to be canned.

The old cannery had been dismantled, the new one wasn't finished, the prison kitchen couldn't begin to use all the peas being picked, so, according to Henry Brinmeier, then head gardner, they just naturally stopped picking peas after about 50 bushels had been gathered. The remainder of what had been planted for a big crop went to waste, explained Mr. Brinmeier. He added that if Rockview convicts eat many canned peas this winter the same will have to be purchased in the open market, at market prices.

"Mr. Stutsman advised me to try planting Alaska peas last spring, and I did," stated Mr. Brienmeier to "The Republican." "We bought 5 bushels of seed, and planted an acre. Mr. Stutsman suggested that as an experiment we plant the seed in rows three inches apart, instead of according to my plan of making the rows three feet apart. With my plan we would have used about two bushels of seed to the acre, but to carry out Mr. Stutsman's idea we planted the five bushels of seed in one acre, using a wheat drill, and making the rows three inches apart.

"The peas matured and we started to pick them. After we had picked about 50 bushels we simply had to stop. The kitchen couldn't use more than about 18 bushels, the new cannery wasn't ready for them, the old cannery had been torn down, and there we were. The remainder of the crop just went to waste in the field.

"The new cannery was started in March or April, last, and it wasn't finished enough to can very much of anything until some time in September. It wasn't ready even to take care of the few vegetables that we raised. I protested when the little, old cannery was torn apart, but Mr. Stutsman paid no attention to it. I saw instantly, as did others there, that it was a mistake to tear down the old cannery until we were sure that the new one would be finished in time. But Mr. Stutsman would pay no attention when we tried to tell him. The result was the awful waste and loss. Mr. Stutsman was above everybody else. He was in charge, and that was all there was to it. As I have said before, he didn't know much about the vegetable gardens, because he never paid much attention to them. If Rockview uses peas this winter to feed the prisoners Rockview will have to buy peas in the open market. Had the old cannery been saved until the new one was in shape for use, Rockview would now have on hand more peas than could be fed to the prisoners for months and months to come. The facts speak for themselves as to who is responsible for such a state of affairs.

"I had the same trouble in raising beets, tomatoes, parsnips and peas as I had with the acres of cabbage and beans and peas that went to waste. I couldn't get Mr. Stutsman to give me even a few additional men to help me. I couldn't have even as many men to help me in the gardens to raise the vegetables to feed the prisoners as Mr. Stutsman usually had at his residence to do the houseword and look after the lawn. Before Mr. Stutsman came to Rockview my gardens produced for us usually about 800 bushels of cucumbers and pickles. We had more than we could use. We sent truck load after truck load to the market and sold them. This year we got about 5 bushels of pickles and about 15 bushels of cucumbers. I didn't have the men to help, and without the necessary labor I was up against it.

"I went to Mr. Healy, the deputy warden, and appealed for men, but he couldn't give them to me without Mr. Stutsman's order. Mr. Healy had

Mud Important Factor in State of Indiana

Few persons realize the part that mud has had in the story of Indiana. Mud was one of the first necessities of the pioneers and mud it was that held the state back for so many years.

When the first log cabins were built mud was used to stop the cracks between the logs. Mud was used extensively in building the chimneys. Mud, so useful and necessary in construction work, then became the barrier that separated one community from another and held the pioneers at home until sunshine had dried the roads sufficiently for travel. In the early days when plank roads were advocated, figures were given to show what mud was costing the farmers every year.

Indiana has advanced a considerable distance from the mud road days, observes the Indianapolis News, but there remain many hundreds of miles of earth roads, back from the main highways. A county-seat newspaper says that attendance at the rural schools has been decreased because roads are impassable. The motorcar driver who spins along a paved highway gives little thought to the day when a team of horses had difficulty in pulling a wagon through the mud at a rate of one mile an hour. At the edge of the pavement is mud, but all it means to the driver is something to avoid. In some parts of the state there is no way of avoiding it and business is dormant until the roads dry out.

The state is generous with its mud of different types. On the unpaved hills of Brown and Monroe counties the rich, red clay mud is perhaps the hardest of all to travel over—or through. On other sections there is black mud in plenty and its depth is such that the stoutest-hearted automobile gives up in despair.

In northern Indiana there is a thinner mud. The farmer crosses his barn lot, each foot getting heavier with its load of mud as he steps. Eventually the load falls off and a new supply begins to accumulate. Sorrow is his portion if he fails to remove his shoes before he enters the house.

Mud, which at some seasons of the year may be had for the asking, has finally gone into society and some branches of the mud family are getting wealthy. Where one farmer is wondering how to get mud off his boots, a dozen women are saving their money so they can buy enough mud to beautify their faces.

Counting by Hands

Many a lad could get "E" in arithmetic and yet be excused if found wanting in a counting match with the natives of Guiana in South America. Indeed, it might puzzle even a good arithmetician to add together the numbers expressed by two men, hand and first finger, and two hands and two fingers.

The Indians of that quarter of the world have a system of enumeration of their own, of which the human hand is the basis. They count upon the fingers until five is reached, when they denote the number by a hand.

Six is a hand and first finger and ten is two hands, but when 20 is reached a new name is used. Twenty is denoted by a man and 40 by two men.

Forty-five would be two men and a hand, and 46, two men, hand and first finger. It is not a complicated system, but it requires practice to use it freely.

Scientific Bird Study

The American Ornithologists' union was formed 41 years ago, in 1883, by the amalgamation of numerous societies of bird students in various parts of the country. Its membership at first was small, but it has constantly grown, increasing from about 140 to approximately 1,600 at present. The activities of the society are manifold. It arbitrates scientific questions concerning birds, maintains a bird magazine, the Auk, and investigates the problems of the migration and nesting of birds. Two offshoots of the union have themselves attained a development practically overtopping the parent organization. The American Audubon society, which is concerned with the protection of game and song birds, originated as a committee of the Ornithologists' union. Another committee developed into the biological survey, now one of the most active bureaus in government work.

Cave Waits Exploration

Exploration of a large unnamed cave near Navajo lake, southern Utah, has been begun by a party of Cedar City residents. So says an Associated Press dispatch from Salt Lake City. Recently five men, wading in water sometimes three feet deep, penetrated the cave for 300 feet, but they were forced out by lack of oxygen.

The entrance, about five feet in diameter, was discovered several years ago. Just how far back the cave runs could not be determined by those of the exploration party, but in some places inside it was fifty feet from the floor to the roof. When more suitable equipment is received a more thorough survey is planned.

French Law Cuts Revenue

A law was passed in France recently making the legal adoption of children relatively easy, and the new measure is resulting in loss of revenue to the government. Inheritance taxes in France are heavy, but are much lighter for children than for unrelated inheritors. Therefore testators adopt distant relatives and friends to whom they desire to leave money, and evade the high tax.

The North Pole—and Five Others

Earth Has Six, in Three Groups of Twins.

Washington, D. C.—"The earth has at least six well-known poles, in three groups of twins, only one of which the Shenandoah or the Los Angeles, if they blaze an air trail across the Arctic, will probably cross—the North pole. The others of the polar family are the 'poles of cold,' the South pole and the North and South magnetic poles," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The most talked of member of the family is the North pole. Enthroned at the top of the earth where latitude becomes 90 degrees and the meridians of longitude converge, it has received only one visit in all time. Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, with his retinue of Eskimo attendants, spent a few hours in its frigid presence and took notes on its refrigerating system.

"Scientists tell us that this refrigerating plant, installed and operated solely by nature, never fails to register below the freezing point of fresh water even during July, and that its mean temperature in winter is about that of some of the Montana cold snaps.

"Even Old Sol, when he returns to the North has been unsuccessful in breaking up the plant, though at the summer solstice he pours out larger amounts of his rays there than at any other part of the earth's surface except at the corresponding point in the South. If he didn't have to keep moving he soon would make the Arctic ice cap the hottest region on the earth's surface, but he only succeeds in melting some of the surface ice. In honor, or defiance, of his visit, daylight lasts for six months, but humidity, cloudiness and precipitation mar the beauty of his rays on the crystals of the snow palace.

"When he leaves and night sets in, fantastic lighting effects, which shame those of New York's Great White Way, are brought into play. The northern part of the sky is illuminated by an arch of whitish, greenish, or rosy light from which streamers of white or colored light go trailing across the heavens. This effect is called the aurora borealis.

"Though the North pole can never leave its kingdom and has been rigidly bound down by nature, it does manage to shift about in a circle 50 feet in diameter. This restlessness causes a corresponding variability in terrestrial latitudes.

One Caller in a Million Years.

"When Admiral Peary stood on the top point of the earth, he was actually being turned around only once in 24 hours with the rotation of the earth. As he simply lingered for a few hours he made only a small part of a revolution—a pace which is not conducive to dizziness.

"The other monarch of the world's ice lands is the South pole, twin of the North pole. Though there is all the distance in the world between them, in the main the surroundings are duplicated. The arrangement of land and water in their respective spheres of influence is somewhat different; the southern, a land zone surrounded by a wide belt of open sea, and the northern, a water body surrounded by continental land masses. The southern monarch likes his summers colder; in fact so cold are the summers and so regular the winds that there is practically no plant life of even the most insignificant kind on the Antarctic continent. He is also less exclusive than his brother of the North, having received two earthly travelers within his portals—Capt. Roald Amundsen and Capt. Robert F. Scott, but from the latter he exacted a death penalty.

"The North and South magnetic poles, located more than a thousand miles from the true North and South poles toward Hudson bay and New Zealand, are the elusive members of the polar family. The North magnetic pole makes the compass needle stand up straight on its point, and the South magnetic pole makes it stand on its foot, and they both play tricks with all sorts of metal instruments by magnetizing or demagnetizing their parts.

Why Compass Swerves From North.

"When John Jones travels through northern Wisconsin or Minnesota woods solely with the aid of his compass, he cannot go directly north unless he travels just a little west of the direction in which his compass points, because of its affinity for the North magnetic pole.

"The explanation of the magnetic poles is that the earth itself is a magnet, made so probably by the electric currents passing around it in an east-west direction.

"The poles of cold are the Ishmaels and Hagars of the polar family—outcasts, both erratic and disagreeable. They reside in the places where the cold is most intense, usually in the interior of a continent. Though the North pole has the coldest mean annual temperature, there is a desert of ice in the interior of Greenland, which is the coldest part of the northern hemisphere in July. Verkhoyansk, in northeastern Siberia, on the fringe of the Arctic circle is colder in January than the North pole itself. It even boasts a record of 94 degrees Fahrenheit below zero, but its mean temperature for January is about minus 60 degrees Fahrenheit. During February Fort Conger, Grinnell land, on Ellesmere island in the Arctic, claims the honor, with a mean temperature for February of about minus 40 degrees Fahrenheit."

3,000 Crows Chase Eagle to Its Valhalla

Nevers, France.—The strange sight of a huge eagle being pursued by a flock of crows estimated at some 3,000 caused the townfolk to stretch their necks here.

The eagle eventually sought refuge at the Chateau de Oussy, where keepers immediately shot it, whereupon the flock of crows disbanded and disappeared. The eagle measured more than eight feet across the wings.

HERE'S A HEALTH GIRL

Water Found in Quartz Ten Million Years Old

Chicago.—Drops of water more than 10,000,000 years old, preserved in quartz since an age before life began to appear on earth, will be exhibited in the Field museum here.

The water was obtained in South America by O. C. Farrington, head of the museum's department of geology, who found it imprisoned in crystal quartz taken from rock formation at Bon Jesus dos Meiras, Bahia, Brazil. The estimate of its age was based on the fact that the rock formations of the archean age are asserted by some scientists to have existed 550,000,000 years ago. The water is clear and sparkling in its crystal container.

Bull Fighting Barred

Vienna.—Thirty Spanish toreadors recently appeared before the Budapest municipality in their picturesque national costumes and were received by the burgomaster. They appealed for permission to hold bull fights, but the burgomaster could not make any promise. It is improbable that the prohibition will be removed.

BOOK DESCRIBING EARLY TRIP OF AMERICA HAS BEEN FOUND

Tells of Hennepin's and Du Lhut's Adventures in 1680.

Minneapolis, Minn.—A yellow, worm-eaten old book, Father Louis Hennepin's own account of how he and Du Lhut in 1680 discovered the falls of St. Anthony, has been found in the home of W. E. Hewitt, a Minneapolis attorney. The book was published in London and dedicated to William III.

Father Hennepin tells the story of how, after journeying from the mouth of the Illinois river down the Mississippi to the gulf of Mexico and back, he and his companion were captured by a band of northern Minnesota Indians. They were taken to the north woods, where Father Hennepin became ill.

He was placed in a tepee, into which were rolled large round stones, red hot. These heated the tepee, while two Indians gave him a sort of "Swedish massage." The treatment was repeated until he recovered.

Accompanied by Du Lhut, he and his party later started back to Canada, discovering en route the falls of St. Anthony. Near the falls they found beaver skins hung up to scare away evil spirits. Some of the party wanted to steal the hides, although Du Lhut opposed this, knowing the ways of the Indians better than they.

Despite his protest, the skins were taken. Later the whole party was captured by the Indians, who wanted to kill them. Friendly Indians intervened, however, and the white men were allowed to proceed.

Father Hennepin at the time was a subject of Spain, although traveling with an expedition financed by France. Upon his return to France, because he took credit for discovery of the mouth of the Mississippi, which the French contended should go to La Salle, he was exiled and proceeded to England, where he wrote his book, with William III. as his patron.

Isle Where Brutus Plotted Is Air Base

Rome.—A new project for an experimental air station and flying school on the island of Nisida, in the Bay of Naples, involves uniting the island to the mainland by a bridge about three-fifths of a mile long.

To stop the alarming number of accidents to Italian airmen the government has decided to build a large experimental station and research laboratories on the island.

Nisida, a small rocky island, is the Nesis of the ancients. In 44 B. C. it afforded a refuge to Marcus Brutus, who was visited there by Cicero. The conspiracy against Caesar was initiated there by Brutus and Cassius, and there Brutus took leave of his wife Portia on his departure for Greece before the battle of Philippi, the news of which caused her to commit suicide by swallowing burning coals. In the Fifteenth century Queen Johanna II had a villa on the island which was converted into a fort to keep the fleet of Louis of Anjou in check. The island was formerly actively volcanic.

Has Big Goat Milk Farm for Benefit of Children

Because she is interested in saving the lives of weak and tubercular children, Mrs. James A. Patten, wife of one of Chicago's "wheat kings," has developed one of the most successful goat milk farms in the United States. It is near Evanston, and comprises ten acres. There are about 50 goats in the herd, all are aristocrats, very temperamental, and bear such attractive names as Marguerite, Evelyn, Jean, Dorothy, Bernice and Gwendolyn. Mrs. Patten is here seen with some of her flock.

Use Skin Boats to Flee Arctic Perils

Crew Abandons Ship With $1,000,000 Fur Cargo.

Winnipeg.—One of the most amazing tales of hardship and adventure that has come out of the Far North in years—a tale of hopeless battles with ice and sea, of a hair-breadth escape from starvation in the wilderness below the pole—was told by Capt. Gus Foellmer and members of the crew of the ill-fated Hudson's Bay company's ship Lady Kindersley when they arrived here after abandoning their vessel to the engulfing ice floes off Point Barrow.

"Well, if we had stayed with the Kindersley another day we wouldn't have had a chance." That was the brief way in which Captain Foellmer, a big, gaunt seaman, whose home is the Arctic ocean, described the escape of the Kindersley's crew. His ship, he added, probably is at the bottom of the northern seas now, with her million-dollar cargo of furs.

Ship Abandoned.

Not until all hope of saving her had gone did Captain Foellmer reluctantly give the order to abandon his stout little ship—and then it was with faint hope of reaching shore. Many times the skipper and sailors of the Kindersley had attempted to make their way to shore across the ice floes after she had become wedged solidly in the slowly moving scum that covered the northern sea. Each time they had failed, turned back by yawning crevices in the ice and bewildered by the heavy fog which had settled down upon the surrounding whiteness. When they started on their final dash it was not for shore, but for the open sea, where they knew, by wireless advices, that the United States steamship Boxer was standing by, somewhere out in the fog.

Tossed about in their three little skin boats, not knowing when they would be crushed between the groaning hills of ice on all sides of them, the sailors gradually made their way northward, traveling so slowly that it seemed at times they would never reach safety. Blindly they stumbled on, carrying their boats across the ice, with only a vague idea of the Boxer's position, gained by their wireless communication with her.

Guided by Eskimos.

A mile away from the Kindersley the adventurers, almost exhausted, came upon a friendly band of Eskimos who were hunting. They managed to make the natives understand their plight. The Eskimos willingly agreed to act as guides, and managed to lead the white men through the tortuous ice channels to the open sea. Here they saw the Boxer was not far off, and their troubles were over.

As for the Kindersley, they lost sight of her before they had traveled a mile, and the shifting ice floe was carrying her away into the polar regions at the rate of about a mile and a half an hour. Probably by the time the crew was safely on its way south the vessel was crushed to matchwood in the ice floe, her rich cargo becoming the prize of the Arctic seas.

Turks to Give Access to Sultan's Library

Constantinople.—There is soon to be established here a national library of Turkey in which the existing libraries of the university and the private library of the former Sultan Abdul Hamid will be united.

Turkish experts are at present studying the methods of organization of the public libraries in European capitals. Manuscripts of great value were collected in Constantinople in the course of centuries, and it is hoped

Coins of Old Wessex Kings Found in Cave

London.—A collection of Saxon coins issued during the reigns of five Wessex kings has been discovered in a cave near Peakland, Derbyshire, by Rev. G. H. Wilson. Human and animal remains found in the outer chambers of the cave indicate, according to antiquarians, the cave was formerly the dwelling place of a personage, possibly of a Mercian ruler of more than a thousand years ago.

The coins so far identified date back to the time of Cenwul, a Mexican king who ruled about the year 800. Articles of personal adornment also were found.

Mr. Wilson has advanced the theory the Saxons of eastern and middle England, retreating before the victorious Danes, took shelter in the Derbyshire caves and that there many of them were slaughtered or starved.

Hangs Dog Daily to Oust Spirits

Canadian Police Discover Savage Practices of Indians.

Wrangell, Alaska.—Killing and torturing members of the tribe having failed to drive away evil spirits that were causing hunger and disease, an Indian in the Liard district of Canada, 500 miles east of here, hanged a dog daily until he had put to death his whole sled team.

This was one of the tales that trickled through to Wrangell by means of gold prospectors after a party of Canadian royal mounted police passed through here recently bound for Vancouver, British Columbia, with five Indians accused of torturing to death Mocassin, a lad of seventeen. The boy was said to have been buried while he still breathed.

Legends that the Indians of the wilds of northern British Columbia and southern Yukon commonly tortured and slew fellow tribesmen for being friends and companions of injurious spirits have long been common among prospectors.

Killed for Witchcraft.

Five months ago Frank Bass, factor for the Hudson's Bay company at Fort Liard, Yukon territory, reported to Canadian authorities that Big Aleck, a Cree Indian living on the Mackenzie river, had told him that nomad Indians from the Nelson river, in British Columbia, had murdered a boy accused of witchcraft. The crime was placed at 40 miles south of Fort Liard.

Superintendent Knight of the royal police, stationed at Vancouver, sent a patrol to investigate. The Liard district was reached after traveling hundreds of miles on foot with pack dogs and navigating the swift lower Liard river by canoe. Big Aleck, when found, repudiated the story. The party of three policemen, commanded by Inspector T. V. Sandys-Wunsch, camped near the suspected Indians.

Patiently studying the territory, the investigators came on a hole in which they found the body of a boy with his hands tied behind him.

After that confessions from the Indians came easily. These were to the effect that Edy, a squaw, had suspended Mocassin head downward from a sapling to drive away evil spirits, after Big Aleck had dreamed that the lad was a sorcerer. A girl, Lucy, found Mocassin hanging there and begged that he be cut down. Lucy said that the lad was alive when put into the hole, but other Indians asserted that he was killed first by hitting him on the head with a rock.

The police arrested Edy, her three brothers, Dan, Jimmy and Clem, and Big Aleck, and took them to Fort Liard. At a hearing there the inspector, a magistrate, decided that the prisoners should go to Vancouver for trial.

The three policemen brought the prisoners out to Wrangell, traveling 1,000 miles on foot and by canoe.

No police had been in the Liard district since 1892.

One Fundamental Principle

By J. B. M. CLARK

WHEN Kate Ogilvie heard privately that it was the pretty girl in Rev. Mr. Haywood's choir who had thrown over an admirer on the strength of advice from "Molly Molloy" of the "Heartsease" page of the Montreal Weekly Meteor, she experienced a sudden distaste for her job. For she herself was Molly Molloy, and had heretofore given counsel on affairs of the heart with a zest that the subsequent enthusiasm of the recipients invariably whetted, and which was rarely dampened by untoward happenings.

In this particular case, on the testified diffidence and lack of resolution of a needy suitor, she had advised bringing an unsatisfactory "understanding" to an end and the accepting of a wealthy, if elderly, admirer. And the passionate cry of the discarded one: "To h—l with Molly Molloy! You might have given me a white man's chance to make good!" borne through strange channels to her ears, made her so sick at heart that she threw up a good position and went to visit an old college chum in Los Angeles. Later, liking the new environment, she sought to re-enter the newspaper world, but finding conditions difficult in the Pacific coast city, went pro tem into the receiving department of a dry goods store as a bookkeeper. And there, in the course of the following year, she made the acquaintance of Charlotte Bosbyshell and Richard Appleton.

Charlotte Bosbyshell (known as "Bobby") was twenty-one years of age and reasonably attractive, but having no steady beau was obsessed by the bleakness of the outlook. She had been in the receiving department for two years. Appleton, who had drifted down from Seattle or somewhere in the North, was understood to be aiming at the "movies." He was nearer thirty than twenty and was of a studious turn. Bobby decided that he would suit her and she strove to captivate him, even seeking advice from Waddington, the married head of the department.

"Well, I can't help you," said Waddington. "Whom do you want to vamp now?"

"Oh, no one special," replied Bobby truthfully. But she showed Appleton photographs of herself in hiking attire and contrived to be near the door when he left at night so that they might go to the car together.

Kate Ogilvie, who was nearer Appleton's own age, discussed economic questions with him, particularly serfdom, but did not approve of his solution of state endowment of motherhood, fearing that it might lead to a worse serfdom still. They talked over this and kindred topics, and discovered they had much in common. He took her to shows on several occasions. . . . Once they had supper together . . . on one of their outings they met Bobby.

Bobby asked Kate quite frankly at the first opportunity if there was anything serious between her and Mr. Appleton, as she herself was getting very fond of him. Besides, Bobby understood from something Kate had once said, that she was interested in "somebody 'back East'"—But she really wasn't. "Nothing at all, Bobby," said Kate cheerily. "Go ahead, my dear. I wish you luck."

Although generous, Bobby did not see very deeply into things, and she told Appleton at the first opportunity. It did settle him. He was inclined to disbelieve it, and thought Kate was trying to be funny about his hurt. He got his chance in the "movies" soon after this, and made rapid headway. They heard he was doing well. He found a place for Bobby after a time, first as an extra, and then in a minor part. She had some natural talent and she worked hard. And after a time, things having become so very different, Bobby fell in love with a camera man and married him.

Whether or not Appleton was greatly concerned is difficult to ascertain at this time. He was greatly engrossed in the career that lay ahead of him. A somewhat piquant situation was unexpectedly created by his old love, suddenly left a rich young widow, coming out to look for him and forgiveness. It was not to be had at any price, but inadvertently she gave him full particulars about how she had not put the case quite properly to Molly Molloy—had in fact cherished some hope that what had actually happened might take place, for she had been aware that the elderly suitor was delicate. But Appleton had been so bitter in his anger that she did not like to explain, and so had blamed everything on Molly Molloy.

"The trouble with you, Kate," said Appleton soon after, taking hold of her chin and turning her face to his, "is that with all your knowledge of affairs of the heart, and your supposed deep understanding of their workings, you have missed one very fundamental principle, namely, that a man can very rarely be 'wished' off from one woman to another. Why didn't you tell me you were Molly Molloy—especially as you had a clear case—?"

"I didn't know how you might take it," she said, her eyes dropping. "The clear case might have been difficult to establish. I didn't want to lose your respect. . . . And so . . ."

"And so you did the foolish thing?" he suggested, kissing her.

"Yes," she replied, with wonderful meekness for so self-confident and erudite a person.

Lest We Forget

Belgian Consul C. J. Simon said at a dinner in San Francisco:

"Let us be just to the Germans—and justice commands us to forget their atrocities.

"One day in Belgium, before your country had entered the war, a Chicago correspondent with a camera said to a German officer:

"'Captain, will you permit me to take a few of these chateaux around here?'

"'Why, certainly, my boy, if you can do it,' said the captain, and he gave the Chicago correspondent a look full of admiration. 'You Americans do beat the devil for efficiency. I've taken a couple of grand pianos and eight grandfather's clocks and five life-size marble statues myself. But chateaux! Well, go ahead, my boy, if you can do it.'"

75% of disease avoided through internal cleanliness

WHEN you are constipated, poisons are formed in the accumulated food waste, and reach all parts of the body. The first results, headaches, biliousness, a feeling of "heaviness", etc., serve as warnings of graver diseases to follow if this intestinal poisoning continues unchecked.

This is why intestinal specialists state that constipation is the primary cause of three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Physicians Advise Lubrication for Internal Cleanliness

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste, and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

OVER THE COUNTY

A flock of wild geese was observed, flying south, by citizens of Millheim last week.

W. F. Colyer and his tenant, Mr. Decker, of near Centre Hall, have in storage over 3,000 bushel of potatoes, part of a 4 000 bushel crop, which they are holding against a better market.

John H. Horner, on the Spicher farm, west of Old Fort, had the misfortune recently to be kicked on the leg by a horse, and while no bones were broken, an exceedingly painful bruise resulted. In addition to this the animal had been recently shod and stepped on Mr. Horner's foot, forcing one of the calks through his shoe and into his foot, causing another serious wound.

On Monday evening of last week, as Miss Mary Swartz, of Madisonburg, was driving home through the "Narrows" with several other employes of the Millheim hosiery mill, in turning out for a doe deer that was in the road, hit a spike buck that had just leaped over the fence from the creek side of the road. The car was stopped and an examination revealed the fact that the buck was dead, whereupon one of the party bled it and it was loaded onto the car and taken to Madisonburg. Warden Ira Gramley was notified and brought the carcass to the Centre County Hospital.

Eleven cars of an east bound freight train on the B. E. V. branch of the P. R. R., were wrecked about 20 yards west of the Beech Creek station early last Thursday morning. The cars were piled up and thrown about, and much of the bituminous coal with which they were loaded, was dumped on the track, while the rails and ties were torn up for a considerable distance. The burning out of a journal, causing the axle of one of the cars to break, was given as the cause of the wreck. Passengers over the valley branch were transferred around the wreck, which was not cleared until nearly noon.

A party of Centre County hunters made a trip to Potter county recently and came back with 4 nice bears, killed by G. W. Long, Joseph Shoemaker, Charles Gearhart and W. C. Shoemaker. The Jones Hotel, at Cross Forks, was made the headquarters of the party, which consisted of the following men: W. H. Homan, Centre Hall; R. A. Kline, Fay Randolph, Fred Gearhart, E. Shoemaker, J. M. Moore, Earl Heffner, William Thompson and Bert Lytle, of Pine Grove Mills; Charles Gearhart and O. M. Hockenberry, of Huntingdon; W. C. Shoemaker, Pennsylvania Furnace; J. C. Shoemaker, D. B. Jones, George Gilliland, John Gilliland, Robert Hess, Dantel Wagner and Thomas McFaddon, of State College.

SPEAKER CHANGED.

Dairy Work On Local Farms Will Be Stressed.

Due to the location of various creameries, and the increasing demand for milk from sanitary barns throughout the county, great stress will be laid on this phase of farm work at the meeting of the Farm Bureau association, to be held next Saturday in the High School auditorium. Many Centre County farmers have been improving their dairy herds and concreting their cow barn floors, while many more are preparing to take this step.

E. B. Fitts, of the Pennsylvania State College, will be the principal speaker of the day, and the meeting will include two sessions, morning and afternoon. In the morning the reports of the local agent will be heard and the regular work of the association taken up. After a cafeteria luncheon served in the basement of the High School building, the meeting will convene at 1:30, and the business of changing the name and the various addresses will be made.

MANY DEER KILLED

Hunting Camps Report Success During First Days of Season.

Hunters in camp in the mountains in Centre County report lots of luck during the first few days of the deer season. Many camps have not reported as yet, and some will not likely be heard from until well toward Dec. 15, the closing day. Just how many bucks were bagged during Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is entirely a matter of guesswork. As is usually the case, some camps had several bucks hanging up before sundown on Monday, while others had no luck at all. Much more complete reports will be available next week.

Warden L. P. Smith, of Spring Mills, reports from the Paddy Mountains section, as follows: Penns Creek Rod & Gun Club, 1 bear and 3 deer; Herndon Club, 2 deer; Poe Mills, 2 deer; Panther Hollow, 1 deer; Schuylkill Rangers, in Henry Lingle's house, in Poe Valley, 4 deer; Confer & Lingle, in Poe Valley, at the pike, 1 deer; Wolfe & Co., at Zerby Gap, 1 deer; Savage Gun Club, at Morris Lingle's house, 2 deer; Spring Mills day hunters, 4 deer.

HUNTING NOTES

The camp of Pleasant Gap hunters in the Seven Mountains reported 3 large bucks up to and including Wednesday morning.

The Chambers—Uzzle camp in the Snow Shoe mountings reported 1 buck killed on Monday. No later reports from this district are available.

The first deer of the season was reported by Boyd Smith, of Spring Mills, who bagged a 5-prong buck, early on Monday morning soon after daylight, in the foothills of the Seven Mountains.

Russel Lambert, of Bellefonte, got a 5 prong buck on Tuesday, and Frank Shultz, of Curtin, of the same party, shot a 6 prong buck on Monday. The party camped in the vicinity of Walter Gherrity's.

Women hunters are no rarity in Centre County, but the laurels for bagging the first deer this season probably go to Mrs. W. M Woodring, of Altoona, who brought down a large 3-prong buck about 10 o'clock on Monday morning above Potters Mills.

Several does have been killed this season and all of the men who killed them have paid their fines. The first one reported was shot by J. R. Grayville, of Rockfield, Pa., near the McKinney place at Spring Mills, on Monday. Two men were apprehended on Tuesday by Thomas Moster, one for the killing of a doe and the other a small buck, whose antlers were only about 2 inches long.

William Rossman, of Pleasant Gap, has been most successful during the present season, having shot for himself a turkey, a bear and a 3 point buck. He has done all his hunting alone in the mountains adjacent to his home. Another Pleasant Gap hunter by the name of Baer, got his buck on the second day of the season.

Arthur Wilson, of near Bellefonte, was the first local hunter to get his buck, as far as is known, and likewise was the victim of one of the first accidents, although that was not of the "shooting" variety. Wilson was in camp near Tusseyville, and shot a spike buck about 11 A. M. While running down the mountain in pursuit of the deer, a stone slipped from under his foot and he severely sprained his left ankle. He and the buck were brought to Bellefonte later in the day.

J. W. Benner, a day hunter of Madisonburg, and accompanied by Mark Fetterolf, were stalking a deer about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, with the former about 6 or 8 feet ahead of his companion, when the rifle in the hands of Petterolf brushed against a bush and was accidentally discharged. The bullet entered the sole of Benner's right foot, as he was in the act of taking a step, and came out just back of his toes. He was brought to the Centre County Hospital, where he is convalescing as rapidly as could be expected.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE No. 1

"STEPPING STONES"

If you like them easy this one will suit you, for the interlock helps you over the stickers. If you're in the expert class you can find an unusual word or two. This puzzle contains every letter in the alphabet except "k".

PEA CROP DESTROYED

enough sense to see that unless I had men to help me out, the vegetable crop would go to smash. He advised me to go to Mr. Stutsman and frankly explain matters. I told him that I had been to Mr. Stutsman so many times that I was discouraged. Mr. Healy urged that I try again, and I did so, but it was of no use.

"When, before the present year, I had enough men to help me work the gardens, we usually produced about 2000 bushels of tomatoes. Just as had been the case with cucumbers and pickels, we formerly had all of the tomatoes we could use and what were left over we sold. The money received went, of course, to the prison to be applied to operating costs. Instead of my gardens producing 2000 bushels of tomatoes this year, we were lucky to get about 500 bushels. Just what happened to them I don't know, because I haven't asked, but a lot of gallon cans of tomatoes were thrown away. I heard it said that some of the cans were covered up in a ditch. What caused them to spoil was never explained in my presence. Rockview will have to buy tomatoes, after the few we raised this year are gone.

"It was the same with onions and carrots. Usually the gardens gave us about 1500 bushels of onions and 400 bushels of carrots a year. This year we got about 45 bushels of onions. We had no carrots.

"With so many prisoners to feed every day in the year, I had always been given to understand that the success of my gardens was an important item in making Rockview self-sustaining. Naturally I took the greatest pride in producing as much of everything as possible. It had been pretty well hammered into me that every dollar's worth of vegetables that I could get out of my gardens meant a dollar saved to the State in feeding the 400 to 600 prisoners. That was the policy of the management before Mr Stutsman came there. After he came things started to go from bad to worse. The cost to the State for feeding the prisoners this winter will be a surprise to the public when the figures are given out, if they ever are given out.

"If the convicts at Rockview are served with beets this winter, Rockview will have to buy beets. Until this year we usually produced about 600 bushels of beets. This year we got about 10 bushels. But beets were no different from other things. Instead of about 20,000 gallons of sweet corn, it was about 150 gallons this year. Instead of 50 tons of cabbage, it was about 6 tons, and so on all along the line.

"About 20,000 stalks of celery was an average year for my gardens. This year, I am only too sorry to say, we didn't have a single stalk of celery. We usually had about 400 bushels of parsnips. This year we didn't have a parsnip.

"The wholesale waste and loss at Rockview this year will mean higher costs for food at the Pittsburgh penitentiary, also. Rockview is not shipping surplus vegetables to Pittsburgh this year. Both prisons will save to buy the greater part of everything they use in that line. Rockview gardens could have produced this year not only as much but more than in other years, but they didn't, by far, and the one person directly responsible is Mr. Stutsman."

Child Struck by Auto.

Richard Bradley, 6 years old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bradley, of Prossertown, was struck by a Dodge coupe, driven by R. Vallinger, of Williamsport, a representative of the Valley Iron Works, of that place, last Friday afternoon. Mr. Vallinger had been to the Whiterock Quarries and was following Ray Noll back to Bellefonte. The child darted into the road between the two cars, and before Mr. Vallinger could stop the fender of his car struck the child and knocked him down. He was rushed to the Centre County Hospital in the car which had struck him, where an examination revealed the fact that no bones were broken, but that he had sustained a number of bruises and lacerations. Mr. Vallinger was exonerated from all blame.

Todd—Whitman.

Clarence Ottinger Todd, of Lock Haven, and Mits Lena May Whitman, of Hublersburg, were united in marriage at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Todd, at Lock Haven, Wednesday of last week, at 3:30 o'clock, by Rev. J. F. Miller. Besides the immediate family of the groom, the following guests were present: Mrs. Boyd Whitman, brother of the bride, and Mrs. Daniel Kern, grandmother of the bride, of Hublersburg; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wenzel and Mrs. William Yetley, of Williamsport, and Lizzie Berry, of Lock Haven. Both the bride and groom have been employed in the Lock Haven silk mill. They will reside for the present at Lock Haven.

Tate—Young.

John Malcolm Tate, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Tate, of Pleasant Gap, and Miss Rachael Elizabeth Young, of Boalsburg, were united in marriage last Saturday at the parsonage of Trinity Methodist church, Lock Haven, by Rev. J. Merrill Williams. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ripka, of Pleasant Gap. They will reside at Pleasant Gap.

The Healthy Habit

Dr. Louis Pasteur, the microbe sleuth, took his first cue from wise old gardeners who found that one of the surest preventives against germs is tobacco juice. Chew BEECH-NUT Chewing Tobacco and stay healthy.

To Paint Signs on Roads.

The State Highway Department will paint direction and warning signs on the surface of roads. Work of an experimental character to determine the best methods has been under way for some time and arrangements have been made to carry out this plan all over the State, including the signs at approaches to grade crossings, steep grades, curves and the like. White paint similar to that used for lining the road as to travel will be employed. There are thousands of sign posts along the State highways, many of which are not visible under the new lense regulations for motor cars. They will be lowered where practible, but meanwhile steps to bring about the necessary change will be taken by painting on the surface.

William H. Low Dead.

William H. Low, a lifelong resident of Spruce Creek, died at his home there Tuesday of last week, death resulting from cancer. Deceased was born on Oct. 14 1840 at Spruce Creek, and at the time of death was in his 85th year. He is survived by his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Annie Fox of Altoona, and 2 children, Leo, of Spruce Creek, and Mrs. J. C. McMenamin, of Altoona. Mr. Low was the last member of a large family. Funeral services were held from the late home at 10 o'clock on last Friday morning, followed by interment in the Lutheran cemetery at Water Street.

Mailing Christmas Checks.

The fortunate ones who started Christmas saving funds at the Bellefonte Trust Company last year, are now realizing the fruits of the their thrift and upwards of 400 of them receiving approximately $23,000 this week. This department, which is about to start on its third successful year, has grown by leaps and bounds. The first year a total of $8,000, was mailed out the first week in December. The second year it more than doubled itself to the sum of $18,000. Accounts are now being started for next year.

ASK FISH LAW CHANGES

Propose Prohibiting Nets and Shorter Trout Season.

Representatives of upward of 100 fisherman's associations throughout the State, at a meeting before N. R. Buller, Commissioner of Fisheries, at Harrisburg last Saturday, voted unanimously to ask the Legislature to forbid the issuing of special device permits for spear or gig, fish basket or eel rack, outline, burr hook, loop or snare, fyke net or dipnet, or other device of the kind within the waters of Pennsylvania.

The sportsmen also recommended that all persons over 16 years be required to take out a license, and in the event of this failing of approval in the Legislature to raise the license fee from $1 to $1 25 above the age of 18.

The delegates favored shortening the trout season so that it shall begin May 1 instead of April 15, as at present. The season for bass, pike, perch, or Susquehanna salmon, pickerel and muscallonge, it was recommended, shall begin July 1 and end Nov. 30, instead of Dec. 31.

A proposal to remove the size limit on all game fish was voted down. It was recommended that one rod and one line, instead of two, or one hand line, with no more than 3 hooks attached, may be used in game fishing, but for food fish 2 rods and 2 lines would be permitted.

The bag limits were fixed as follows in the bill that will be presented: Trout, 15 for one day; white bass, rock bass, crappie, strawberry, or calico bass, 15; small or large mouth bass, 10; pike, perch or Susquehanna salmon, 5; pickerel, 15; muscallonge, 3; yellow perch, 25; sunfish, 25, and catfish, 25.

The fish commission will consider a proposal by a number of sportsmen providing for the closing of streams after the manner in which districts are now closed to hunting for short periods to increase the supply.

SNOW CAUSED WRECKS.

Number of Minor Accidents on Sunday Afternoon.

A number of drivers were caught unawares by Sunday's snow when they struck an unexpected curve or hill and found that the roads and streets had suddenly become exceedingly slippery. Bishop street was the worst and the scene of most of the skidding. Many drivers were compelled to stop and put their chains on before they could negotiate the grade.

Doyle Miller, of Williamsport, was enroute to that place in a Chevrolet roadster, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Rex Lillidale, of Bellefonte, when he skidded on the "S" curve just below Snydertown, and was hit by a Ford roadster coming toward Bellefonte. Both cars were considerably damaged, but aside from a number of bruises, none of the occupants were seriously injured.

Mrs. Reish Baumgardner, driving a Ford coupe, slid into the bank on Wilson street and upset. The car ran up the bank in front of W. H. Macker's residence, and then toppled back into the road, landing on it's side. Neither Mrs. Baumgardner nor the woman who accompanied her were seriously injured. The windshield of the Ford was broken and the fenders crumpled.

Thomas Jodon, in a new sedan, lost control of his car on Bishop Street and skidded into the curb in front of the Edward Gehret residence at the same time bumping into another car parked along the street at that point. The only damage done was a scarred fender on each of the cars.

ELKS MEMORIAL SERVICE

Splendid Musical Program in Petrikin Hall, Sunday, Dec. 7.

The annual memorial service of the Bellefonte Lodge of Elks will be held in Petrikin Hall, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 7, at 2:30 o'clock. Ten members of the lodge have passed away in the past year, bringing the total to 50 since its organization. They are: Thomas E. Glenn, State College; William ("Buck") Taylor, Valley Forge; Jacob Lyons, John M. Shugert, Charles R. Kurtz, Philip Beezer, Frank E. Naginey, Charles L. Witmer, Henry C. Quigley, of Bellefonte, and Edward T. Kinnie, of Milesburg.

Dr. E. H. Romig, of State College, will be the principal speaker of the day, while the meeting will be in charge of the officers of the lodge. A beautiful musical program has been arranged with Don Bush, Mrs. Louis Schad, Mrs. Robert Walker, Mrs. Russel Blair, John M. Bullock, R. R. Blair, J. D. Hunter and James Seig participating.

David M. Wertz Dead.

David M. Wertz, a native and former resident of Hollidaysburg, died in the Braddock hospital, on Wednesday afternoon of last week, from a complication of diseases, aged 53 years. Deceased was born at Hollidaysburg but had been a resident of Pittsburgh for the past 4 years. Surviving are these brothers and sisters: Mrs. Laura Stahl, of Altoona; Mrs. T. S. Stoner, of Llysen; Mrs. V. Lanfer, Lakemont; Mrs. James Elliot, Linden Hall; Mrs. F. P. Miller, Mrs. F. Keller, J. W. and B. A. Wertz of Duncansville; John, of Altoona; C. Wertz, of Eldorado, and M. W., of East Hollidaysburg. Funeral services were held in Hollidaysburg on Saturday.

MAIL PACKAGES EARLY

Local Postoffice Will Try to Avoid Congestion.

Preparations are now under way in the Bellefonte postoffice, as in every office in the country, to avoid, if possible, the usual Christmas rush and congestion of last minute parcels. To do this successfully, the co-operation of the general public is necessary, and if you wish to have your packages reach the consignee on time, mail them early.

Additional clerks will be employed at the local office to handle the rush. The postoffice department does not object to such inscriptions as "Do not open before Christmas, etc.," being placed on the outer wrapping as long as they do not obscure the address.

Compliance will the following suggestions will greatly facilitate the prompt delivery in good condition of your gifts:

All parcels must be securely wrapped or packed in order to reach their destination in good condition. In wrapping ordinary parcels strong paper and heavy twine should be used.

SPECIAL PACKING

Umbrellas, canes, golf sticks should be re-enforced their full length by long strips of wood tightly wrapped and tied to withstand transportation.

Hats: Pack in strong corrugated or fiber boxes. Ordinary pasteboard hat boxes must be crated. Ladies' hats and stiff hats easily damaged should be marked "FRAGILE."

Shoes: Pack in strong boxes, preferably corrugated cardboard. Wrap with strong paper securely tied with heavy twine.

Cut flowers: Place in strong suitable boxes of wood, tin,or heavy corrugated cardboard. Wrap with tissue to retain moisture.

Candies: Inclose in strong outside boxes or containers.

Drawings, paintings,unmounted maps, etc. Pack or wrap in strong material to avoid damage. When not flat, roll around a wooden core and then wrap and tie carefully or place in strong pasteboard tube.

Sharp-pointed or sharp-edged instruments or tools must have points and edges fully guarded to prevent injury to clerks in handling or damage to other mail. Crate suitably or thoroughly wrap so that they cannot cut through the wrapping.

FRAGILE ARTICLES

Articles easily broken or crushed must be crated or securely wrapped. Use liberal quantities of excelsior, or like material, in around and between the articles and the outside container.

Glassware, fragile toys, crockery must be packed so as to prevent the escape of particles or pieces if broken in transit.

Cigars: Ordinary boxes of cigars wrapped in paper only will not be accepted. Pack in a manner to prevent damage by shock or jar. Wrap in corrugated pasteboard or similar material.

All articles easily broken or damaged must be plainly marked "FRAGILE."

PERISHABLE MATTER

Articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation and delivery will not be accepted for mailing. Wrap or pack carefully, according to contents, and plainly mark all such parcels "PERISHABLE." Use special delivery stamps to expedite delivery.

ADDRESSES

Addresses should be complete with house number and name of street, post-office box or rural route number, and typed or plainly written in ink. A return card should be placed in the upper left-hand corner of every piece of mail. If a tag is used, the address and return card should also be written on the wrapper for use if tag is lost, and a copy of the address should be inclosed inside the parcel.

POSTAGE

Postage must be fully prepaid on all mail. Affix the required amount of postage in the upper right-hand corner. Full information concerning postage rates can be obtained at the parcel-post or stamp window.

WHEN TO MAIL CHRISTMAS CARDS AND PARCELS

Christmas gifts and cards addressed to points within 1 day's travel should be mailed not later than Dec. 20; within 2 days' travel, not later than Dec. 18; within 3 days' travel, not later than Dec. 16; for more distant points, not later than Dec. 14. Parcels and cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than Dec. 22.

PARCELS AND ENVELOPES MAY BE ENDORSED "PLEASE DO NOT OPEN UNTIL CHRISTMAS."

Jacobs Pardon Refused.

The State Pardon Board met at Harrisburg on Wednesday. Among the applications for pardon were 3 from Centre County, only one of which was granted. That granted was to George Harold Newman, committed for larceny. Newman was former a resident of Julian, but at the time he received his sentence was residing at Philipsburg. The application of Leslie W. Jacobs, of Centre Hall, was denied, as was that of R. F. Riley, a convict who took "French leave" from Rockview and was sentenced in the local courts for the crime of breaking and escaping.

Direct Wire to Phila.

Bellefonte has direct connection to Philadelphia over a new Bell circuit recently placed in operation. In the past it has been necessary for the Bellefonte Bell operator to "build up" a circuit when calling Philadelphia. She called a city between here and Philadelphia and asked the operator at that place to give her Philadelphia. Now the Bellefonte operator will get the Philadelphia operator direct, which will mean quicker and better service. Bell engineers are constantly studying "traffic" conditions, that is the number of telephone calls between various points. When the business grows to the point of warranting the expense of an exclusive circuit, the wires are connected up. This new service is a tangible evidence of Bellefonte's growing business relations with Philadelphia. Already this circuit is being used to more than 60 per cent of its capacity and as knowledge spreads of the improved service, doubtless it will soon be carrying a full load.

WHO'S WHO in the WORLD

F. M. Sackett, New Kentucky Senator

Kentucky will have two Republican senators in the Sixty-ninth congress, Senator A. Owsley Stanley having been defeated in the election by Frederic Mosely Sackett, Jr., of Louisville. "Who's Who" gives the senator-elect's occupation as that of financier. He was born in Providence, R. I., in 1868 and is a graduate of Brown university (1890) and of Harvard law school (1893). He married Olive Speed of Louisville in 1898. He practiced law in Columbus, Ohio, and Louisville until 1907. Since then he has been identified in an official capacity with various gas, lighting, coal and cement companies. In the World war he was the federal food administrator for Kentucky. He has served twice as president of the Louisville Board of Trade. He has been a member of the state board of charities and corrections. He has been a director of the Louisville branch of the federal reserve bank of St. Louis since its organization. He is a member of the Kentucky State Bar association. He is a Unitarian. He is a member of several clubs, including the Harvard Club of New York. His home is "Edgecombe," Cherokee park, Louisville.

His colleague, Richard P. Ernst, lives at Covington and practices law in Kentucky and Ohio, with offices at Cincinnati.

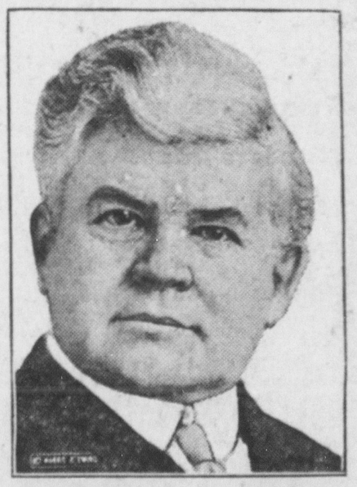
Colorado's New Governor Makes Plans

Colorado has a new governor as the result of the election, Gov. William E. Sweet, Independent Democrat, being defeated for re-election. The new executive of the Centennial State is Clarence J. Morley, Republican. He is fifty-five years of age, an attorney admitted to the bar in 1897 and a judge of the Denver District court since 1918. Highlights in his plans include the following policies to be placed in effect under the new administration:

Continuation of plans for the 1926 Golden Jubilee celebration in commemoration of Colorado's fiftieth birthday as a state and the completion of the Moffat tunnel in 1926. Economy in government and reduction in taxation through abolition of useless boards and bureaus. Possible elimination of the advisory pardons board and adoption of a rule to grant pardons but rarely.

An outstanding legislative move of the new executive will be the adoption of a new primary law, which would require every voter to register as to party affiliation and that in the primary election electors be given the ballot of the party with which they are connected. Under this system electors could change their registration of party affiliation at any time prior to election.

Rainey Advocates Outdoor Recreation

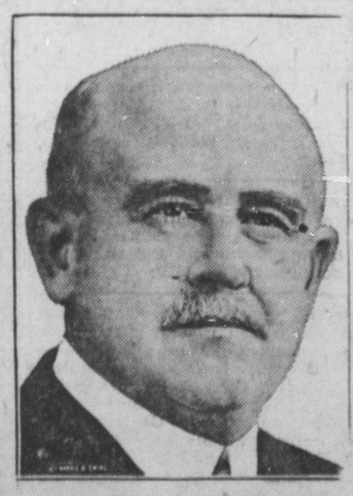


Henry T. Rainey, representative from the Twentieth Illinois congressional district, believes in outdoor recreation and nature study as an antidote for many of the manifold ills of our modern civilization. So he has fixed up his 320-acre farm and thrown it open to the public. Twelve years ago Mr. Rainey had the opportunity of buying a farm a mile from Carrollton which had been a show place since before the Civil war. He and his wife always had wanted to construct an estate to their heart's desire without the aid of a landscape gardener.

"We have no children of our own," explained Mr. Rainey. "And there was no reason why we should try to make money off our farm," explained Mrs. Rainey. "Why should we not share it with the children of other people?"

This was the inception of Walnut hall with its gardens and parks. Mr. Rainey has built two small lakes, has opened a tract of 165 acres of natural prairie and woodland and has built a wading pool in the front yard for the smaller children. Visitors and motorists from a radius of 100 miles come daily, winter and summer, to see the parks and gardens. In the summer they swim and fish. In the winter they skate. In the spring come the high school classes for their picnics. In summer the Sunday schools and the women's clubs hold open-air meetings. Mrs. Rainey tells the youngsters stories about the birds and trees.

Senator McKinley's Gift to Student



William B. McKinley of Illinois is one United States senator who gets into the limelight because of something outside of politics. At Chicago the other day gifts for five Presbyterian colleges in Illinois totaling $1,366,000 and $150,000 for St. Luke's hospital in Chicago were announced. Senator McKinley contributed $340,000 and $750,000 came from the $1,500,000 in land which James A. Patten and Mrs. Patten of Evanston contributed to the community trust. The Pattens' gift will be in the form of income from the land on which the University club stands, at Monroe street and Michigan avenue.

The largest beneficiary of Senator McKinley's gift will be the student center at the Illinois State university at Champaign-Urbana, which receives $200,000. Senator McKinley contributed several years ago $60,000 to erect a Presbyterian church for the students and that was the beginning of a student center. Colleges which will share in the Patten gift are: Blackburn college, Carlinville; Lincoln college, Lincoln; James Millikin university, Decatur; Illinois college, Jacksonville, and Lake Forest college, Lake Forest.

Senator McKinley served seven terms in the house and was elected to the senate in 1920.

FRUIT CAKE RECIPES FOR CHRISTMAS USE

Three Formulas Favored for Delicious Confections.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The fruit cake recipes given below have been tested by the office of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. The first one may be cooked in several ways—in the oven, in an ordinary household steamer, in the fireless cooker, or the steam-pressure cooker. Rich fruit cake is always more satisfactory when done if the cooking is accomplished partly by steaming. There is very little difference between a fruit cake of this type and a "plum pudding," and the housewife who wishes to do so may reheat part of her fruit cake by steaming and serve it as plum pudding.

Spiced Fruit Cake.

1 pound butter
1 pound light brown sugar
9 eggs
1 pound flour
2 teaspoonfuls mace
2 teaspoonfuls cinnamon
1 teaspoonful soda
2 tablespoonfuls milk
3 pounds currants
2 pounds raisins, seeded and finely chopped
½ pound almonds, blanched and shredded
1 pound citron, thinly sliced and cut in strips

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually and beat thoroughly. Separate yolks from whites of eggs; beat yolks until thick and lemon-colored, whites until stiff and dry, and add to first mixture. Then add milk, fruits, nuts and flour mixed and sifted with mace, cinnamon and soda. Put in buttered deep pans, cover with buttered paper, steam three hours and bake one and one-half hours in a slow oven; or bake four hours in a very slow oven without steaming. One and one-third pounds of dates and one-sixth pound of candied grapefruit peel used instead of raisins makes a very good cake.

A Fruit Cake for Christmas.

Rich Honey Fruit Cake.

3 cupfuls flour
2 teaspoonfuls soda
3½ cupfuls honey
1 cupful butter
6 eggs
2 teaspoonfuls cinnamon
2 teaspoonfuls ginger
3 teaspoonfuls ground cardamom seed
½ teaspoonful cloves
3 pounds raisins (seeded)
1½ pounds currants
1 pound citron
2 pound candied cherries
1 pound candied apricots
1 pound candied pineapple
½ cupful sour jelly, or ½ cupful white grapejuice
2 teaspoonfuls vanilla
2 ounces candied orange peel
2 ounces candied lemon peel

Cut the candied fruit into small pieces, with the exception of the cherries, which should be left whole. Place the fruit in a large dish and sift over it one-half of the flour, mixing thoroughly. Sift the soda with the remainder of the flour. Bring the honey and the butter to boiling point and while still hot add the spices. When the mixture is cool, add the well-beaten yolks of the eggs, then the flour and grape juice or jelly and the well-beaten whites. Finally, add the fruit. The cake should be divided into three or four parts and put into buttered dishes covered with buttered paper tied closely over the tops. Steam for five hours, remove the paper, and bake in a very slow oven for an hour. This makes a very rich cake consisting chiefly of fruit. For the sake of economy the flour can be increased to even twice the quantity without affecting the quality very much.

Plain Honey Fruit Cake.

4 cupfuls flour
3 teaspoonfuls soda
2 cupfuls honey
1 cupful butter
6 eggs
2 teaspoonfuls cinnamon
2 teaspoonfuls ginger
3 teaspoonfuls ground cardamom seed
½ teaspoonful cloves
3 pounds raisins (seeded)
4 ounces citron
1 pound cranberries
1 pound canned pineapples
1 pound dried apricots
1 pound dried apples

To prepare the cranberries, pineapples, apricots and apples, cook each in honey till it is soft; remove from the honey and dry in a very slow oven. A little water should be added to the honey in which the cranberries are cooked, a good proportion of ingredients being equal weights of cranberries, water and honey. To any honey left over from cooking the fruits add enough honey to make up the total amount called for by the recipe. Mix and cook the cake in the same manner as the other honey cake.

CRANBERRIES USED IN DIFFERENT WAYS

Excellent Dish When Served in a Baking Dish.

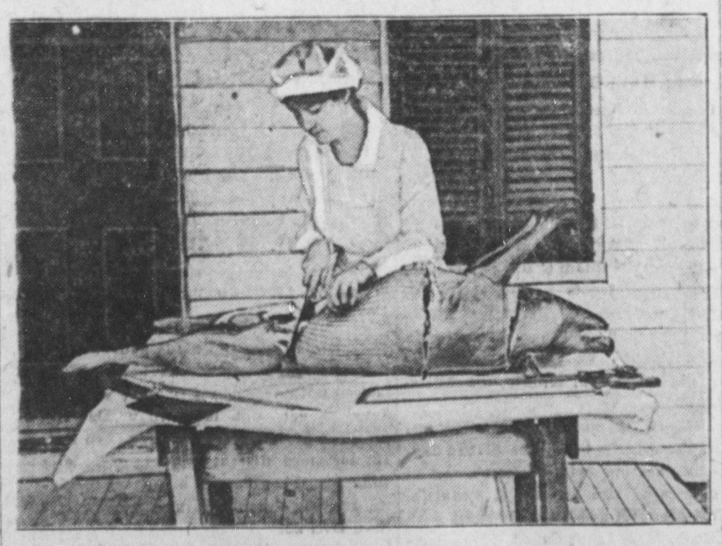
(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In addition to being spread on shortcake, cranberry sauce can be combined with biscuit dough in several ways. Served in a baking dish, covered with a biscuit top, it becomes "cranberry cobbler"; spread on a square of biscuit dough such as one makes for Dutch applecake, and then baked, it makes a cranberry cake which many people would prefer to a tart or other pastry.

Cranberry pie may be made of cranberry sauce or cranberries either with or without raisins. When equal parts of raisins and cranberries are used it is often called "mock cherry" pie. Cranberry pies are usually made without a top crust, although a lattice of pastry strips may be used, or a meringue may be spread over the top and delicately browned. In a variation of "mock cherry" pie recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture, chopped, pitted, cooked prunes are substituted for raisins.

Cranberries may be introduced in many dishes where cherries would be used in the spring. A hot steamed pudding made by a biscuit dough recipe is excellent if one cupful of cranberries is stirred in for each pint of flour. Cranberries may be used in richer steamed puddings with more eggs and other ingredients; they may be put into baked or boiled bread puddings, "cabinet" or stale cake pudding, or plain batter pudding. Most of these desserts require a sauce of some sort. A soft "hard" sauce is excellent with any of them or a liquid sauce, such as foamy or lemon sauce, thickened with egg and cornstarch, or cranberry sauce itself. Cranberry souffle can be made if it is not necessary to economize on eggs. Steamed brown bread may have cranberries in it.

TENDERNESS OF DIFFERENT CUTS OF PORK



Cutting Up a Pig on the Farm.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The following suggestions made by the United States Department of Agriculture may be of help both to those who buy their pork at the market and to the farmers who may be glad to secure greater variety in the use of their home product.

There is no marked difference in the tenderness of the different cuts of pork, but the meat from the fore quarter is somewhat coarser grained than that of the loin and hams, and the proportion of fat to lean is greater. Shoulders well trimmed and smoked are satisfactory to use in place of ham, if offered at a price low enough to offset the larger amount of bone which they contain. The thick end of the shoulder is known as the Boston butt. Shoulders are sometimes boned, rolled and smoked. Since there is practically no waste to this cut, the real cost can readily be estimated. Smoked hams and shoulders are commonly boiled, but both are excellent when baked, fried or broiled.

To bake a smoked ham or shoulder, wash it well, cover with cold water and simmer for about three hours for medium-sized ham, about 15 minutes per pound when followed by baking. Allow it to cool in the broth or remove at once, trim off the brown crust and remove the skin. Smear the surface well with brown sugar, stick it liberally with cloves, using perhaps one to each square inch. Bake for two hours in a covered roaster. Remove cover and brown the fat side well. Serve either hot or cold.

THIS WOMAN RELIEVED FROM SUFFERING

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A Remarkable Story

Dover, Del.—"I wish every woman would take your wonderful medicine as it has done so much good to me. I had cramps and faint spells and very bad pains. One day I was over to my neighbor's house and she told me I ought to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I went to the store on my way home and got a bottle, and took the first dose before supper. I have been taking it ever since, and you can hardly believe how different I feel. I had just wanted to lie in bed all the time, and when I started to brush up I would give out in about ten minutes. So you know how badly I felt. I used to go to bed at eight and get up at seven, still tired. Now I can work all day and stay up until eleven, and feel all right all the time. My housework is all I do in summer, but in winter I work in a factory. I have told a good many of my friends, and I have had three come to me and tell me they wouldn't do without the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. SAMUEL MURPHY, 219 Cecil St., Dover, Delaware.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

"FIGHTING JOE" IS NATIONAL CHAPLAIN

"Fighting Joe" is the title which has been bestowed by general consent on Rev. Joseph Lonergan of Durand, Ill., recently elected national chaplain of the American Legion. And the title is not airy tinsel, either. It has a background.

For it harks back to kid days when as a boy with two fists who knew how to use them and Father Joe sometimes found employment for them in ways other than earning money by working on railroad tracks to go to college. The story goes back to the time when he was a famous football star, "the miracle halfback" at St. Viator's college.

The nickname recalls a baseball career culminating in a batting average for his last year of .448, rather a big league average. It carries a picture of Father Joe, the ecclesiastical student at Montreal, tying up his priestly soutane above his knees and sliding bases like Ty Cobb. It is reminiscent of the young priest at Aurora, Ill., who appeared in the pulpit one day with a bulging black eye—fruit of too strenuous endeavors to show his eighth-graders in the school league he organized how to take 'em hot off the bat.

Then comes the time when Father Joe took up his work with the Eighty-sixth division organizing at Camp Grant. He was without military status and without salary, but he carried on. While there he lectured to all officers at Camp Grant on the necessity of religion. Shortly afterward he got a commission as first lieutenant chaplain, and began his extraordinary activity in the fighting game. It was he who spoke at Camp Grant's greatest day, July 4, 1918, when he addressed 50,000 of the division gathered there. A sentence stood out, which was flashed over the country: "A man never became a man until he got a good punch on the nose."

Then the Argonne and the Vosges. Father Joe says that when the shooting was close he became Dugout Joe, but the boys don't say that. They think he's all man. The chaplain reorganized a band for the Twelfth engineers, "the band with a personality," chosen by the French mission to accompany them when they took over Alsace and Strassburg from the Germans. He was transferred to the Ninetieth division and remained with them until he was discharged. Membership in the American Legion followed soon and then his election as department chaplain for Illinois in 1922. In 1924 he was unanimously named national chaplain. That's the story of "Fightin' Joe" Lonergan, whose record at the front with the men endeared him to all veterans and makes him a very popular "padre."

Legion Posts Aim to Cut Down Fire Loss

"The source of America's largest and most preventable waste is fires, and American Legion posts and departments throughout the country are taking up the problem with an aim to appreciably cut down the loss annually of millions of dollars from fire," declared Legionnaire J. H. Dulaney. He and W. S. Atkinson are heading the department of Oklahoma's move for fire prevention. Both are leaders in the Oklahoma Fire Prevention association. The American Legion, department of California, has been active in fire prevention in the redwood forests on the coast the past year.

Prize for Student

It's time to reward the studious lad with the bulging cerebrum, as well as the campus hero of bulging biceps, decided the A. A. Mountain post of the American Legion of McMechen, W. Va. Accordingly, they offered a substantial cash prize to the high school student whose scholarship record is best during the year.

EDUCATION WEEK

"THERE is no record in history of a military organization manifesting such an interest in the themes of peace and there has never before been such an expression on the part of a military organization of a consciousness of the importance of universal education as a guarantee of the safety and perpetuity of our democracy, as has been displayed by the American Legion," was the declaration of Vernon M. Riegel, director of education, state of Ohio, in congratulating the Legion as having been responsible for the inauguration and promotion of American Education week. The Legion in co-operation with national agencies introduced American Education week in 1921. The week has been observed annually since then by Presidential proclamation.

MANY POSTS AFTER MEMBERSHIP HONORS

American Legion posts throughout the nation have been extremely active for some weeks in signing up members in advance for 1925, according to Frank E. Samuel, national director of organization and membership. Posts have been tumbling over themselves to claim honors for early membership returns. Never before has there been such a contest and such a scramble for recognition in this work, it is declared.

First dues for 1925 were received by national headquarters from Joe Williams post at Farmer City, Ill., which had signed up 14 men for 1925 by the first of October. The first post in the country to sign up more members for 1925 than it had had in 1924 and to send the dues to national headquarters was Victor Cornell post, Pelican Rapids, Minn. Fowler post, Fowler, Ind., the home post of Thomas S. McConnell, department commander for 1925, was a close second. Other posts which were among the first to go over the top in this hot contest were Pulaski post, Detroit, Mich., and Roy Cole post, Grand Ledge, Mich.

The Florida and Connecticut departments are staging a contest to see which will have the larger percentage of 1924 membership signed up for 1925 by the time the bells ring out on New Year's eve. Florida suggests that the losing department buy the delegates and alternates of the winning outfit a big dinner at the Omaha convention of the Legion next year.

Florida appears to be looking for something. That department won only three of the big Legion prizes offered at the 1924 convention. They carried home the trophies for the largest percentage of membership signed up by March 1 over the preceding year's membership, for the largest percentage signed up for the year over the preceding year's total and that for the largest number of man miles traveled to the national convention at St. Paul. Florida surely basked in the limelight.

Colorado, Utah and Wyoming are mixing things in a little friendly rivalry, Western style. The winner is to be the department which signs up for 1925 the largest percentage of its 1924 membership and will receive a stand of department colors presented by the losers.

Organized German Labor and Escort Companies

Do you know who directed the destiny of the German prisoners of war taken by American troops during the late fuss abroad? His name and title is Lieut. Col. William Briswold Gough, at present deputy county surveyor of San Diego county and a member of the San Diego post of the American Legion. Colonel Gough is a veteran of the Mexican border trouble, enlisting in the army in 1916. When the World war included the United States he was sent to France with the commission of captain. With the Fifteenth Field artillery he was wounded in action and then was placed on the general staff, where he took complete charge of the prisoner-of-war department of the A. E. F., and in that capacity organized the German labor and escort companies.

Fine Clubhouse for Hollywood Legion Men

Hollywood (Cal.) American Legionnaires will have one of the largest and finest clubhouses in the United States, if plans approved by the Hollywood post of the Legion are carried out. The clubhouse will be erected on property already owned by the post and will include swimming pool, a dormitory, gymnasium and other departments usually found in the most exclusive men's clubs. Money will be obtained to finance the building of the club from the weekly boxing bouts held at the Legion stadium, which have proven very popular with the "movie" populace, stars and "extras" alike. Hollywood post recently raised $100,000 to carry on the post's relief work for disabled veterans.

Iowa County Lost Most Men

Madison county, Iowa, according to figures of American Legionnaires of the county, lost more men during the World war than any county in the United States in proportion to population. With a loss of 52 men, Madison county gave more than any county to make the world a safer place to live in.

BRUSHED WOOL SWEATERS; FEATHER TRIMS POPULAR

LET'S be optimistic and count our blessings from a fashion standpoint. Why not start our list of winter joys for which we are duly appreciative with the words "brushed wool"? If there is one vogue more than another for which we would render a vote of thanks to stylists responsible therefor, it is that of the lovely "comfy" brushed wool knitted things which Paris grows almost feverishly enthusiastic about some one item that appears in the modes. Ah at once designers seem to think by day and dream by night of this particular feature of the styles. Just now those who make hats for stars in the social firmament or for those whose names stand for vast incomes, are trimming them (the hats, of course) with the radiate their colorful charm throughout the season's modes.

Seems as if most everything in the way of knitted outerwear has taken upon itself a downy soft surface, which fashionists are pleased to exploit as "brushed wool." Especially are sweaters expressing themselves in terms of brushed wool. Even the lightweight ones for sunny southern wear show this tendency, for there are degrees and degrees of brushed wool ranging from mere suggestion to shaggiest fur-like effects. Orange and white brushed wool makes a pleasing color scheme in the sweater here pictured. There is unique contrast in collar and cuffs of solid orange brushed wool, with the belt, the pockets and the front hem of smooth plain knit.

While plaids are strongly endorsed in brushed wool knitted garments, there is also favor expressed for solid gay colored models. Especially do the heavier, shaggier sweaters flaunt striking monotone effects, such as bright green, vivid orange, red or pure white. These often appear in jacquette silhouettes, frequently sans trimming of any sort, although there are some stunning models with collars and cuffs of clipped "wool fur."

Among brushed wool sweaters, the latest types revel in exquisite heather effects. Often these new heather brushed angora wool sweaters follow mandarin lines, with cuffless full sleeves and a high collar. Some of the handsomest sort boast large fancy celluloid buttons.

Very interesting colors expressed in sweaterdom this season include brown, carrot, various tan shades, powder blue, Lanvin green and bright jockey red which is quite the smart note for winter knitted togs.

Every once or twice in a while (and a very short while at that), a siriest and most expensive plumage used lavishly on wonderfully becoming shapes, usually of velvet. The shapes show trifling variations of the season's accepted styles.

It is not always so easy to be, at the same time, gorgeous and elegant, but these new, feather-trimmed hats accomplish it—therefore they have been adopted and adapted in America and four of them appear in the group pictured here. Some of the fine feathers which do not always make fine birds, are forbidden to us—as the heron aigrette—but we get along very well without them. Mme. America substitutes other plumage which she can wear without a twinge of conscience. Ostrich, peacock, coque, goose, pheasant, in their original state, or so disguised that we do not recognize them, contribute satisfactory feather trimming for American millinery.

The hat at the top of the group pictured is of black hatter's plush with pompon and "feather duster" monture, which leaves us to guess as to what sort of plumage it is. It is fine and shiny, with little touches of white near the top. Just below it a satin hat with velvet facing has an interesting back brim, accented by a group of airy aigrettes, imitating the exquisite plumage of the heron. To the left a daring velvet tam borrows dignity from the fan of glycerined ostrich used in such profusion at one side. The tall satin hat at the lower right is made distinctive by the lavish feather fancy that it supports. Modestly presenting its claims last, is an eccentric sailor shape of silk with velvet facing. The brim is much extended at the left side and lest we forget to notice it, places a floral appliqué where it will attract attention.

SLUGGISHNESS

Sedentary habits and lack of exercise are largely to blame for the prevalence of constipation and its attendant ills. Thousands, who, were it not for the ravages of constipation, would otherwise be well, are suffering from skin diseases and disorders of the liver and kidneys brought on by sluggish bowel action.

That constipation can be quickly relieved and that even chronic cases can be corrected has been conclusively proven by thousands who have followed the simple practice of taking one or two Jaques' Digestive Capsules after meals. Many doctors prescribe this remedy for indigestion and constipation. Its beneficial medicines in convenient capsule form bring right-away relief, have a tonic effect on the entire digestive system, invigorate the bowels and induce healthful, normal action. 60c at druggists or postpaid from Jaques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y.

Are You Nervous?

Portsmouth, Ohio—"About twenty years ago I was clear down and out physically, my nerves were completely gone and I could not sleep or eat. I was able to sit up only about an hour at a time. I doctored for six months but instead of getting better I grew worse. A neighbor persuaded me to take Dr. Pierce's medicines. I took his 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets', and in three months I was back to normal health. my nerves were good, I could eat and sleep well and do all my own work."—Mrs. Edward Pollitt, 844 Front Street. To Have Shelter Station.

In reply to a petition by residents of Beech Creek and vicinity, asking for a new station to replace that destroyed by fire at Beech Creek, superintendent J. K. Johnston, of the Tyrone division, has written as follows: "As to the question of erecting a station building on the site of the former station at Beech Creek, we can assure you that a suitable waiting room and freight shelter will be erected in the near future. As this is no longer an agency station, we cannot, of course, guarantee that the new building will be as large as the previous structure but we feel sure that it will meet satisfactorily the requirements for which it is intedded." The new station at Eagleville, to which the station agency will be moved January 1st, is fast going up and almost under roof.

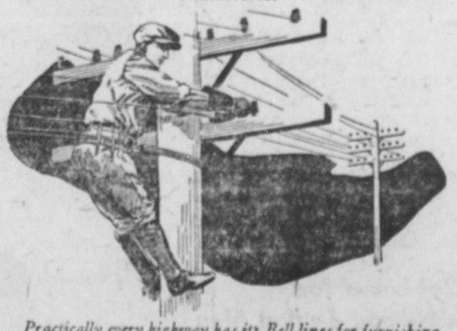
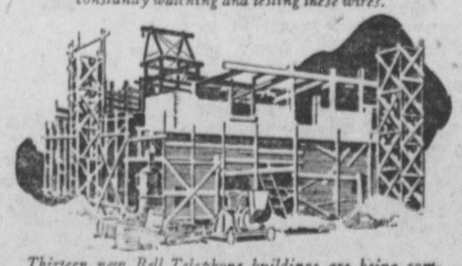
The Telephone Service Job—

Not for one instant, day or night, holiday or weekday, is even the smallest Bell Central Office closed. There are 12,000 Pennsylvania young women who operate the switchboards.



Practically every highway has its Bell lines for furnishing service to the rural dwellers, and for connecting cities and towns with Long Distance wires. Hundreds of men are constantly watching and testing these wires.



Thirteen new Bell Telephone buildings are being completed in 1924. Eight others were started and will be completed in 1925. Besides, ten major additions to other buildings were finished.

THE handling of your own calls, perhaps the ten or a dozen made each day from your residence telephone, seems to you to present no great problem. "One telephone, one pair of wires, and an operator to do the switching!"

Multiply that telephone by nine hundred thousand. Multiply that pair of wires by 910,000 other pairs. Multiply that operator by 12,000 other operators. Add 468 buildings, 6,000 switchboard positions, 3,400,000 miles of underground and aerial plant, and 11,000 construction and maintenance men, engineers, accountants and clericals—and you have the recipe for furnishing Pennsylvania's telephone service.

But volume is not the all-important element. Nor the fact that it is a twenty-four-hour-a-day job, seven days a week. Complication presents the big difficulty.

Each subscriber at any second may call any one of the thousands of telephones in his exchange, or any of the 900,000 elsewhere in the state, or beyond. His every call comes without advance notice. 900,000 "talk tracks" must be open for him at all times, regardless of distance and without detour or delay.

It's a big job.
